JP Domain Name Dispute Resolution Policy(JP-DRP)

About JP Domain Name Dispute Resolution Policy

JP Domain Name Dispute Resolution Policy aims to resolve disputes by quickly cancelling or transferring domain names obviously registered or used in bad faith when complaints are made by rightful trademark owners. (Examples of domain name registration and use in bad faith include: acquiring a domain name reflecting a trademark for the purpose of reselling it to the trademark owner at a high price; establishing a Web site using a domain name identical or similar to a trademark owned by another party for the purpose of creating misunderstanding and confusion among Internet users)
